

RAISING A GREAT HOWL.

THE PROPOSED APPOINTMENT OF THOMAS FURLONG, A MISSOURI REPUBLICAN.

Knights of Labor in the East Opposing His Selection as Chief of the United States Secret Service—An Explanation of His Strength With the Administration—Party Services in Indiana and Personal Favor to Prince Russell.

HOMAS FURLONG
of this city, candidate for the position of Chief of the United States Secret Service, is encountering unlooked-for difficulties in his fight for this important place in the Treasury Department.

When his candidacy first became public, Mr. T. V. Powderly received letters from St. Louis urging that he, on behalf of the Knights of Labor, make a protest against the appointment. This protest was filed by Mr. Powderly making no consideration of the results and considerations prompting him to take such action.
Since then he has received letters withdrawing objections and some even denouncing as forgery letters received by the head of the order previously. Neither Mr. Powderly nor the Secretary of the Treasury have the time to investigate the question of authenticity or some surprising developments would probably result.

The exceeding bitterness against Furlong growing out of the Southwestern strike has resulted, however, in opposition from other sources. The Knights denounce him as the chief of the Midwest Pacific Detective Service during the Wyandotte train-wrecking trials have been remembered in the East and the Knights of Labor there are now taking up the fight.

Notwithstanding the opposition, Furlong's chances for appointment seem bright.

A Washington special to the New York World gives the following explanation of
THE CANDIDATE'S STRENGTH:

There are reasons for the intended appointment of Thomas Furlong to the position of Chief of the Secret Service in the Treasury Department which have not yet been published.

It is true that Furlong is one of Jay Gould's most sagacious dependents, and such did the work required by the good railroad king, and Gould's influence is strong with this Administration. But Furlong did not gain recognition.

He was summoned to Indianapolis by Russell Harrison during the campaign last year and employed to do some of the fine work needed in that State. And this is not all.

When Andrew Crosley, Jay Gould's
Mossback, began an agitation Russell Harrison for slander, laying his damages at $60,000, it was known that Crosley had once been in Louisville and had given out many whispers about the reputation he left behind him.

As "Prince Russell" had a knowledge of Furlong's past, he never had any trouble
in getting him engaged.

Then, however, came the editor of the Indiana Journal, who had a knowledge of Furlong's past, and he never had any trouble
in getting him engaged.

It is the fact that Furlong is in the employ of Russell, assisting him to organize a case against Crosley that makes Furlong eligible for the position of Chief of the Secret Service.

His salary will be $10,000 per year.

His debts are to be paid by this appointment.

District Assembly, No. 66, K. L. of this city, met yesterday and voted to oppose his appointment.

Furlong has been in Washington for several months. When he first came here he called at the office of Chairman of the Committee on Education, offering his best during eighteen years to break up the Knights of Labor, and that he would never again enter their ranks.

He managed to ruin Martin Fronc, the Master Workman at St. Louis, during the great railroad strike on the Gould lines two years ago.

Frank Duperre of Baltimore has the indorsement of R. L. of the country. Frank Duperre another prominent candidate, and ex-Chief Brock is willing to be reinstated in his former post. The appointment of President Harrison to appraise Furlong is raising a great howl.

Will Ask for Time.

Secretary Sinton Jordan of the Irish-American Republican Club has issued a call for a meeting to be held next Wednesday evening, at Lightstone's Hall. The committee pointed to go to Washington to explain to President Harrison the relation of the club to the party. The State will not be able to report.

Though another committee has not yet received any intimation as to where the club will meet, it is expected that they will come from the same place.

There is a decided opinion in the minds of several members of the club against the proposition to take money from the club treasury for any such purpose.

BARR'S. "Oh, the power of man over mankind!" Did you ever, in a crowd of people you'd never seen before, single out at a glance the man, and especially the woman? A certain interiority about the man places him upon a pedestal; but he never knows he is there. The man is never an agnostic; neither are those new fall penangs that we are going to open to-morrow. They're 32 inches wide—allowing an inch for advertisement stretching—and we offer them at 10 cents a yard.

BARR'S. Same subject continues

You see we never have a lot of trash on hand, because as the season nears its end we sell off everything for what it'll fetch. Those lace curtains are the latest designs and lovely goods, but it's late and they must go.

BARR'S. We've decided to do something that astonishes us and will astound you. We do now offer our beautiful $8 and $9 satin suits for $5.50 each; best material and very latest style. When you see them you'll be more pleased than you think. Some beautiful combinations in the lot. DOINGS IN THE COURTS.

JUDGE KLEIN DEFINES THE POSITION OF A PARTNER IN FRAUD.

M. J. Kelly Loses His Property Bought From an Embezzler—George D. Bailey's Damage Suit—The Moore Children in Court Again—The Expanded Metal Co. Enjoined—Judge Klein's Rulings.

Complaint in a fraud and the results formed the subject of a decision this morning rendered by Judge Klein in the case of Peter Taaffe against Michael J. Kelly. About one year ago, it will be remembered, a clerk named Roberts, employed by Taaffe & Gay, sold two lots which had been transferred to him, but of which there was no record in the Recorder's office. Roberts sold the property to Kelly and went West, but was arrested in Denver, Colo., and brought home again. Taaffe & Gay entered a suit against Kelly and won the case, or this morning, trial and damages passing on it this morning, trial and damages were awarded in its favor.

BY THE MORPHINE ROUTE.
Ernest Chamberlain's Attempt to End His Life at Barnum's Hotel.

Ernest Chamberlain, a telegraph editor, attempted suicide at Barnum's Hotel, between 5 and 6 o'clock this morning by taking a dose of morphine. He had entered the hotel a short time previous and before going to his room told the clerk he had taken four grains of morphine to end his life and troubles. The clerk promptly summoned the police and soon Mr. Chamberlain had a patrol wagon. After examining him a physician there stated that he had not taken enough morphine to kill himself and would end right in a short time. He was then taken back to his room at the hotel.

Although in no danger of dying, he was a weak, sickly man and had trouble watching on his mind for over a year and a week ago he received a letter which was too much for him, he says, and the contents should not be told to the law. In the present case there is no room for doubt that Dockey and Roberts were engaged in a bold and criminal scheme of defrauding the plaintiffs. Their course of conduct from beginning to end of the negotiations and their immediate flight, in which latter the defendant rendered them assistance after the negotiations were closed, was such as not merely to create suspicion, but to convince any ordinarily prudent and honest man of their evil intent. The defendant seems to have closed his eyes to all these things, but he was careful to get off scot-free. He could not have known that if the defendant knowingly allowed himself to be used to consummate the schemes of Dockey and Roberts it must make the consequences still more serious. The defendant was clear, satisfactory and convincing wholly independent of the testimony of the two contestants that the fraud was being perpetrated by them and that the defendant would or could have known it. It is really difficult to conceive how the defense could have been made. Hence the defense. The complaint now made that by the decree the defendant loses his land in Alaska and the $1,000 which he paid to him was given him in payment wholly between Roberts and the defendant. The plaintiff did not receive any part of the $1,000, but the defense could not tell if they get the Alaska street lots. The motion for a new trial will be overruled.

Charles Blythe, the Murderer, Taking Matters Ver. Cooly.

CINCINNATI, O., July 29.—The cases of the racing and shooting men who were killed in the Owen law yesterday were called in the Police Court to-day and bonds were given for appearance for trial. Most of them were not set for any special date. In the case of Warflinger and one or two others, who have been specially defiant in their conduct, early trial will be given. The saloon-keepers' mass meeting, which resolved to defy the law yesterday, also resolved that those who should be tried should be tried with music. That resolution was not carried out. The men went to the court without procession or music.

THE JONES TRAGEDY.

Charles Blythe, the Murderer, Taking Matters Ver. Cooly.

CINCINNATI, O., July 29.—Charles Blythe, the murderer of Col. A. J. Jones, ate his breakfast this morning with a good appetite and soon afterward recognized a reporter whom he had seen the morning before at the Jones house. "You are the man I talked to over the fence," he said. "Saturday morning at Col. Jones' house. They all said I was not there, but I was, and I was there and fed the horses," and he seemed to have no fears of that. Mr. Blythe, with a broad smile, "I am the man who bought the property." Mr. Blythe, slightly at the announcement, he could hardly contain himself. He considers it gave good fortune to have the property in the hands of a man like Mr. Blythe, and that the exchange of property was mutual there can be no doubt, as Mr. Blythe says Mr. Blythe told him that he was the one who had bought D. T. Jones' ground.

The ladies of Beloitton Chapter, Eastern Star, gave a tea to-morrow at their home to raise money for the mine. Mrs. Blythe, wife of the murderer, will visit Boston before returning home.

The secret purchaser of the Mathias Becker an Eastern party, as originally reported. The truth of this statement does not admit of a question, as the information comes from George D. Capen, who says Mr. Hitchcock told him this morning that it was he who had bought the ground. The admission on the part of Mr. Hitchcock comes about in this way: Mr. Capen is heavily interested with the syndicate who own and who have expended so much money for the not little annoyed, as were his associates

Weather forecast for twenty-four hours, commencing at 8 a.m. to-day, for Missouri: Fair; cooler; north-westerly winds.

The first convention of gold and silver miners will be held in St. Louis and it will be a grand success.

In the language of a headline in this morning's Globe-Democrat they "done up" Gep. BOURGEOIS in the French elections yesterday.

NEXT to a certificate of birth or marriage in the Harrison family a Forum article has been forced to put himself on record in a Post-Dispatch article as a Prohibitionist. This simply means that he is a candidate for re-election to the Senate. To be a Kansas Republican and Senator he has to be a Prohibitionist.

PRESIDENT HARRISON has accepted an invitation to attend the St. Joseph (Mo.) Exposition in October, provided a called session of Congress should not interfere with his visit. If, as is supposed, he intends to call an extra session, he is in a good fix for accepting October invitations with a proviso.

ALL of the Southern Republicans do not favor a clear sweep of the internal revenue taxes. But they all favor a clear sweep of the surplus. None of them would object to a continuation of the internal revenue taxes, provided the proceeds are dedicated to the maintenance of schools or the payment of State debts, or for pro rata distribution among the States.

It is the date of the proposed Mining Convention should be fixed for some time during the Exposition season. St. Louis will have the finest exhibition of mineral products and machinery with the largest gathering of mining representatives ever known in the history of the industry. The combination of the two would be exceedingly appropriate and would guarantee the success of both.

THE New York Graphic finds a great many objections to State appropriations for the payment of rebel pensions. But it entirely overlooks what is probably the main obstacle to the granting of such pensions by the people of the Southern States. They actually boast that their unpensioned veterans are more honored than any which the court could pass upon him.

It may not be the received opinion in Boston, but it is nevertheless true that there is a good deal of human nature in Southern people as well as in Northern people, and that the mere refusal of a Charleston jury, more than half negroes, to convict McDowell of murder is no proof that such is the rule rather than the exception with respect to the part taken by Senators in State legislation, the people will soon make an end of them.

ed wool needed by our manufacturers and hence practically deprives the home wool-growers of whatever benefit the tariff on wool may be to them. The construction of the law in favor of manufacturers is a gross injustice to the wool-growers for whose votes and influence the Republicans voted against the Mills bill.

STATE SENATE.

That State Senate has not made good a record as the co-ordinate bodies of the several State Legislatures are attested by serious debate of the proposition to dispense with the smaller body altogether in the new States that are now organizing for admission to the Union. Nobody has anything to say against the more numerous and popular branch. It is regarded by all as indispensable, and by many as sufficient by itself for all the purposes of State legislation, and better without than with the obstructive appendage of Senate.

This may be a rather hasty conclusion, drawn from a too restricted view of the broad field of State legislation spread over the whole Union for a hundred years past. But it is certain that the Senate has been the weak spot in a number of States for several decades. It has not been composed of men of standing, experience and wisdom superior to the average of the so-called Lower House, and being the smaller body, with members less closely bound to constituencies, it is through the Senate that special private interests mostly manage to obstruct or shape legislation for sinister purposes. Men who covet legislative seats for the money that can be made out of them, or for the railroad attorneyships or corporation influence that can be secured through them, prefer seats in the smaller co-ordinate body for an obvious reason. And thus the Senate has become the recognized hope of the lobby, the vantage ground upon which corruption concentrates its forces, and on which log-rolling combinations of special private interests are made against legislation in the interest of the public.

FATHER HAYES' custom of blowing out the ass was reversed by a girl brought up in London when she first went out to service. After she had gone to bed her mistress noticed that her candle had been left burning, and when asked why she didn't put it out she replied: "Please, ma'am, I do not know how to write."

MRS. MADELINE VINTON DAHLGREN, the widow of Gen. Dahlgren, and one of the busiest women in Washington, has written sixteen short stories in six months and finished her longest novel in two. Yet she has no method, no hours, and is under no necessity to write.

A DISPATCH from Cheyenne states that the woman "Kate Maxwell," reported to have been lynched at Sweetwater, Wyo., under the Veto, the Postmaster, for cattle stealing, is a myth, and all the stories that are told of her desperate exploits have been "fakes." The woman who was lynched was one Ella Watson. The Kate Maxwell woman is a purely imaginary creature.

Mr. HENRY WERNER, who is also acting President, said this morning, speaking of the matter: "It would be difficult to suggest anything that would meet with more popular favor than the holding of such a convention, and I am glad that the POST-DISPATCH has taken the matter up. It will have the business public of St. Louis and the mining interests of the West with it, and you can depend upon it that the Mining Exchange will do everything possible to aid it. St. Louis is now, I believe, the biggest mining market in the country, and has the largest proportion of legitimate mining enterprises. Then we are going to have the short session had Saturday before the mining bar was set up by the Indians in making progress toward civilization, including some complaints about the distribution of sand and supplies in former years. Many apologize for having consumed so much time in explanation; the reason of their caution was that they had to accomplish, but Mr. Silver and his committee in the House were beset with innumerable difficulties and succeeded in giving an imitation of revision of laws after a hard struggle.

"We began the work of indexing and compiling our revised statutes by dividing the committee into five sections of two members each," said Mr. Silver. "First, we prepared the index to the revised Federal and State constitutions which will be published in the first volume. Taking up the old statutes at the beginning we have prepared the index to the revised statutes and by last Saturday night I think we had completed about one-half of the work, with the exception of the state of Mississippi, which we will begin on next week, as soon as the work comes from the State printer."

"Don't you experience some trouble in reaching a CONFLICTING LAWS."

Catholic Missionaries Inducing the Young Indians to Sign.

STANDING ROCK, Dak., July 29.—The old warriors at the agency have been startled by the apparently authoritative statement that the young Indians belonging to the Catholic society are favorable to the treaty and will sign. There are 150 members of the societies and they number 150 members. It is now claimed that the Catholic missionaries have favored the treaty and that they have induced nearly every Catholic Indian at the agency to sign. The Indians are reticent on this point, but Father Craft, who for several years was at Standing Rock, makes no secret of his desire to have the Indians sign. The missionaries may swing the young bucks into the fold, and hold that revision bills or acts repealing existing acts, though not specifically mentioned as being repealed by them, is a very intricate subject, however, and I should not like to cover it. I am not in a position to make any statement, but I am sure that the members of the circle who I described will carefully consider them as a whole and lay down a rule of action."

"I am not in a position to give any evidence of the effect of the new laws of loose and careless legislation."

"Very few. In some instances bills were introduced in the legislature and did not pass the place of existing laws, which will fail to be passed unless the authors did not cover the entire subject matter and succeeded in getting only a small majority. In one case in which a leading member of the House has caused some confusion by passing a bill to prohibit the practice of the old law on Asylums. However, we apprehend no great difficulty in successfully accomplishing our labor."

SENSIBLE VIEWS.

Bishop Walker of North Dakota Talks About the New State.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Bishop Wm. D. Walker of North Dakota was registered at the Hotel Astor, New York, yesterday. Bishop is East partly on business connected with the church and partly for rest and recreation.

"I have been so busy," he said, "that I have not followed the work of the Constitutional Convention which has been framing a Constitution for us. Yes, there are a great many Prohibitionists in North Dakota, but I am not in a position to say how strong they are. The laws are strong enough to secure a prohibition clause in the Constitution."

Bishop Walker said that he had read Elliott's telegram to the Post-Dispatch asking that they insert a special clause of the Constitution relating to the observance of the Sabbath day.

"As I said, I have not kept up with the work of the convention and do not know what kind of a Constitution has been proposed. I am not in a position to say how strong it is. The laws are strong enough to secure a prohibition clause in the Constitution."

WHERE the goods and low prices are, there you will find the crowds. The goods and low prices, both to perfection, are at Crawford's, and with each week of the great clearing sale the crowds increase. To-day many had to leave who could not wait their turn. We are sorry, but come to-morrow and you will meet with better success.

PUTTING DOWN SLAVERY.

An Interesting Statement by Ex-Congressman and Ex-Vice-Vital.

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 29.—"Cardinal Lavigne is bound to fail in his efforts to put down the slave trade," said ex-Congressman Vital, who is staying here. "I have written to the United States Consul General in Tripoli up to 1877. I had not been in my position very long before I discovered that Tripoli was the center of considerable trade in slaves. The Arab merchants journey from Tripoli due south across the desert to the Lake Tchad region. They carry perhaps $100,000 worth of goods for the disposal of their wares. They then begin their return journey. A caravan will consist of six or seven camels, each carrying some 200 pounds. They are getting on the edge of the desert they fall upon some peaceful native village, say all who oppose their design, and capture the people,强迫 them to make all the living prisoners and drive them across the desert to Tripoli. It is once communicated the facts of this to the Consul General in Tripoli, Minister of State. He replied that the statement was useless unless supported by affidavits. I presented my affidavit, but he said it would be useless, as you can well understand, in a country like that. Mr. Fish sent these to General de la Motte, the Consul General at Washington, and when they were brought to Earl Granville's notice he appointed a commission to inquire into the alleged statement. The commission came to me and I understand they issued a report the gist of which was that my statements had some foundation. Now I declare, with a full sense of my responsibility making such a declaration, that many of the slaves in the East are captured in the course of regular commerce and not in slave traffic. Here are some of the facts.

A rich merchant of Tripoli was starting for Constantinople. I knew he was taking a large sum of money in gold and silver to the shore with orders to forbid the boatmen, rowing these poor creatures out to the ship. I told him, however, that he must go. And the manner in which he was bound, were satisfied that the difficult swim was made in a fair way.

Mercadier Accomplished the Fast.

Mercadier demonstrated yesterday by swimming the river with his legs bound from the foot of Carr street to a point about forty yards south of the east end of the bridge, that it is possible to combat against a strong current with but little use of the lower limbs. Owing to the strong current with which the river flows, it is an advertised time for the start, it was not until the wind partially subsided, at 4:42:40 o'clock that he commenced his swim, having made the distance in the good time of 9 minutes and 20 seconds. A large number of English spectators, who had gathered in town, in order to witness the performance, witnessed the swim. The English Consul-General, Mr. Frank R. Drummond Bay, the Consul of Sir John Lubbock, Hay, then Consul-General of Algiers, was present and said the following: "Never mind what he says; you have my authority to take these people to the west, and the steamer will be at your disposal." A rich merchant of Tripoli was starting for Constantinople. I knew he was taking a large sum of money in gold and silver to the shore with orders to forbid the boatmen, rowing these poor creatures out to the ship. I told him, however, that he must go. And the manner in which he was bound, were satisfied that the difficult swim was made in a fair way.

Yesterday's Bicycle Runs.

Yesterday's runs were conspicuous for being short and fairly well attended. The misses, under the command of Lieut. Peckham, rode to Schoolmen's Grove, via Kirkwood, and, after dinner, spent the afternoon in Tower Grove Park. The following took part: Lieut. Peckham, Capt. Hildebrandt, Dr. Edward, Capt. W. H. H. Hurd, Robert Holm, visitors; Adolph Hoerner and Geo. Davis. Capt. Hildebrandt and his party were the first to start, and the others take more interest in riding, and the attendance on runs is steadily increasing.

OPERA GLASSES.

St. Louis and Schneider's Garden Fire Again.

It is not generally known that the new automatic opera glass rental boxes which have caused such a furor in London, Paris and New York are now to be had at Schneider's Garden Theatre. Mr. Schneider is the first person in the United States to bring New York City to obtain these boxes, which fill a long-felt want.

By drowning a dime in the slot at the top of the box and turning the button to the right one can rent a pair of the best make of Lemaire opera glasses for the evening. "The Brigands" will prove a popular opera, and partaking of the spectacular character, opera glasses will be in demand there.

Parties should leave the glasses in the box during intermissions, and not forget to return them at the close of the performance, as absent-mindedness will prove embarrassing. The glasses are so marked that they cannot be used elsewhere, and only an idiot would ruin the box.

It is rumored that a well known young lawyer of our city controls the patent rights to the invention for the United States and Canada.

A VERY YOUNG CRIMINAL.

The Record of Freddie Neese, the 9-Year-Old Thief.

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., July 29.—Freddie Neese, a lad of 9 years of this city, who within a few months has leaped into notoriety as the youngest horse-toe-on record, and who a week ago stole three horses in the city, trading one for a goat, yesterday stole two horses and a cart. Later he stole a spring wagon and left the cart in its stead. Still later in the day he stole a tricycle. As he is too young to be taken to justice, his parents are at a loss to know what to do with him.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 29.—The police are investigating the suicide of Ida Stuberach, a 17-year-old girl, who lived with her parents. The girl's actions were so strange that she attracted the attention of a medical cook. Dr. F. W. Cook called some men to his assistance, and the girl out before she drowned, but their efforts were unavailing. The police were called and after dragging the river half an hour the body was recovered.

WANTS TO ROW LAYCOCK.

GAUDAUR ANXIOUS FOR A MATCH WITH THE AUSTRALIAN.

The Brooklyns Finally Lose a Game—St. Louis Beaters in an Exhibition Contest—Comiskey Still Thinks the Browns Will Win—An Eastern Opinion of the Winter Stable-General Sporting News.

THE prospects of a race between Laycock and Gaudaur, the Australian, are considered very good. The latter is now in England, where he wants to get a race. England, however, has no carmaran to pit against him and his chances of making a match over there are extremely slim. Bearbair is the only man in the United Kingdom who has any reputation as a carmaran, and he is in a third-rate condition.

Laycock is a very fast carmaran and has distinguished in several races. Mr. St. John, Gaudaur's backer, has written the Australian a personal letter in which he offers to match the St. Louis against him, and he is confident the match will be made. It is singular that England, which encourages outdoor sports more than any nation on earth, should be so desirous of itself in first-class carmarans, but this is the case, and it has been for years. If Laycock rows Gaudaur at all it will be on some course in the United States. Laycock's challenge to row any man in England has met with no response.
